II. TEXT-ANALYSIS:

The Travel Agent

Everyone likes to travel. But those who cannot do so themselves might find it interesting to work in a travel agency, arranging journeys for other people. Brian Lawley does this, working in a small travel agency in an industrial city. Most of his work has to do with holidays, both at home and abroad. very autumn the agency sends out hundreds of booklets full of attractive, coloured photographs describing the holidays that their customers will be able to have the next year.

Soon people begin to come into the office to book their holidays, perhaps a week’s skiing in Austria in January, perhaps a cruise to the Caribbean in February, perhaps a seaside holiday in Spain in May or a tour of North Africa. Brian often has to advise people on what holidays will be suitable for them and they always have a lot of questions. Last year, for example, a lady of eighty-two wanted to book for a mountaineering holiday in the Alps, and Brian had great difficulty in explaining to her that it would not be suitable. In the end, she decided to go for a Mediterranean cruise instead.

Please write complete sentences to answer these questions. Use your own words; do not copy the text.

1. What is Brian Lawley’s job?
2. Does he only arrange holidays in Britain?
3. How does the agency inform its customers about the new program?
4. Give examples of journeys offered by Brian Lawley, explaining what makes them attractive.
5. Where did the old lady want to spend her holidays? How did Brian make her change her plans – and why do you think he did that?
6. Where would youlike to spend your holidays? Write a short essay of at least 100 words:
